"...fabulous gems are found in most every volume, such as lengthy (10 to 30 page) treatments on horses, airplanes, anatomy, and nuclear energy, neatly subdivided and filled with colour and black-and-white photographs and drawings. Geographical entries also shine and contain the most-often requested information. The last volume, "Fact Index," is a mini-encyclopedia of its own, integrating the set index with nearly 30,000 short articles and fact boxes."
