& or the Head of History

The Times Digital Archive 1785-1985 delivers every page as published from 200 years of The Times newspaper in a user friendly online format to your students.

The Times is the "world's newspaper of record" and covers all major international historical events from the French Revolution to the Falkland War. For the first time users are able to search the full-text of the entire newspaper, including articles, editorials, pictures and advertising.

Making research far more accessible than ever before, The Times Digital Archive enables students to look at key events in history as they were reported, analyse the impact of the major protagonists and learn about important episodes as they took place rather than just from the historical perspective.

Students can gain an important understanding of why heroes became villains and villains became heroes, how time has altered the perception on so many social, cultural and historical issues and learn the true value of primary sources.

From Einstein to Oscar Wilde, from Oliver Twist to 1984, from Queen Victoria to the partition of India and Pakistan, from the Russian Revolution to the Cultural Revolution, The Times Digital Archive provides unrivalled coverage of local and international news as it took place.
